

ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY of MAKROchem

MAKROCHEM as a significant supplier of technical carbon black in the region, in all decisions made in the course of conducting business activities, take into account environmental aspects in all decisions.

Compliance with the requirements of legal provisions regarding environmental protection is accepted as a minimum requirement.

The company manages all transshipments, including technical carbon black transfers and logistic processes in accordance with environmental protection regulations, and to confirm this has commissioned a prepared environmental impact report for transshipment stations for technical carbon black.

Our environmental activities:

- compliance with applicable laws, standards and internal company rules on environmental protection,
- robust assessment of the company's impact on the environment and identification of factors that have or could have an impact on the environment,
- improving cargo handling and transport technologies to minimise environmental impact, in particular:
 - reduction of carbon black and pollutant emissions to the atmosphere through the use of filters,
 - reduction noise emissions.
- prevention of emergency situations according to the provisions of the emergency procedure,

Our environmental objectives, which will be achieved through the implementation of environmental programmes and tasks:

- reduction of CO₂ emissions (including: efficient use of resources and reduction of energy and fuel consumption)
- reducing the use of paper and printer toner (sensible purchasing of consumables),
- implementation of an ecological product with the addition of pyrolysis carbon black,
- implementation of rules for waste segregation in the entire scope of the environmental management system, carrying out rational waste management in all departments by segregating rubbish, used exploitation materials (toners, batteries, cartridges), segregation of packaging and equipment in order to utilize, regenerate and reuse them in specialised units,
- reducing water consumption,
- raising environmental awareness among MAKROchem employees.

The content of this policy shall be publicly available and communicated to every employee of the company.
